

2 GIRL DINERS SEE THIEF GET $830 PAYROLL

Police Pin Hopes They Will Be Able to Identify Suspects

On two girl diners, police last night pinned their hopes of an early arrest of the thief who snatched a $830 payroll from Miss Albert's. The girls, Florence Turner and Cora Lebrasseur, were taken to police headquarters last night and shown photographs of a number of suspects. They were present when the robbery happened and both obtained a good view of the thief, in addition to their $830. Miss Armstrong gave authorities a good description of the man.

The thief represented the weekly payroll of her employer, The Scott Linotype Co. of No. 74 India street. Miss Armstrong, who is cashier for the company, had just withdrawn the money from a bank and it is believed that the thief who snatched the payroll was her. Some of those who witnessed the robbery reported that the thief was a young man, about 25 years of age, about 5 ft. 11 inches tall, and weighing about 150 pounds. He wore a blue suit and light cap. Miss Armstrong was shadowed by the thief, or a confederate, who also went to the Liberty Trust Company for the funds, police believe. The procedure of the thief, who followed her into a basement sandwich grill at Kilby and Deane streets, indicated he knew she would be unaccompanied.

PIE EPICURES INSIST THEIR PET DISH BE STANDARDIZED

CONDITIONS during the last few years have amply proved the need for official standardization of pie measure on the same principle which has long been in force for bread, according to James A. Sawyer, dealer of Weights and Measures, in City Hall.

There is a standard for everything, it seems, except the size of a pie, a legal unit of value for which still awaits legislative action. Mr. Sawyer said:

"I think the fixing of a legal standard for pies quite as important as fixing the legal measure for bread. Prices of commodities have increased enormously, and the pie is one of the most impressive examples of this."

Before the war, one could purchase a large slice of pie for five cents. Now a shallow pie of no greater diameter is being cut into six or seven pieces and sold at double the old price.

"The tendency of the times is toward standardization of commodity measures, and it seems to me there is as much need to standardize the pie plate as the bread pan and the milk bottle. Pie is as much of a necessity as bread—at least, one would hardly think it as luxuriant as even more susceptible to profiteering than bread. For that reason, I believe it should be brought within the fold of local or State regulation whether retailed by baker or by the victualer in slices."

SEVERED LEGS OF SLAIN GIRL FOUND IN PARK

Grim Discovery in Package:
Scribbled Numbers Give
Slender Clue

New York, July 8.—Pencil scribbles of numbers, such as a grocery clerk would make, was the slender clue on which detectives started last night to solve the mystery in the discovery of parts of a young woman's legs in Battery Park.

Murder was the conclusion of acting Chief Medical Examiner Douglas after examining the dismembered parts. He said the texture of the skin indicated the legs were a woman's, probably a young woman, and that the amputation had been so crude that it precluded the possibility that it had been done by a medical man.

A package was found in a clump of bushes in Battery Park by Patrolman William H. Krassner, of the Old Slip Station, wrapped in brown paper and tied with blacked-off twine. Inside were found hacked-off parts of a woman's legs.

AMPUTATION AFTER DEATH.
Dr. Goomies said amputation had been made after death and that the body had not been embalmed. The woman might have been dead, he said, from one to ten days, but not longer.

One of the legs was wrapped in a piece of soiled white cloth, the other in a towel. Both then had been placed in a large white laundry bag embellished with faded red pattern. In the package also were a small piece of cloth of the same design as the material of the laundry bag and a pair of faded, green, stained khaki trousers.

Trousers furnished possibly another clue. They have a thirty-one-inch trouser leg. Their size suggests, Detective Edward J. Kellefisch pointed out, that they were worn by the woman, who might have been on a camping trip.

CLUE IN FIGURES.
But, police are planning their greatest hopes on the numbers, found on the brown wrapping paper. These are written as though by a child in a series of purchases for a customer on the outside of the package. They make a total of $2.04. There also are other markings so faint as to be illegible.

In the hope of deciphering these, police are in making enlarged photostatic copies of them. It is a hope, however, that Inspector Carey believes is a real one.

The column indicated the following figures: 12-25-13-25-16-19-15-21-23. No line appears after the last figure, but the total, $2.04, concludes the column.

LONDON TELLS NECESSITY OF CADETS SHIFT

Due to Official Change of Organization to Regiment,
Says Lieut.-Colonel

Adjutant-General Jesse P. Stevens yesterday said an investigation of the complaints of the junior officers of the First Corps Cadets against certain senior officers have been investigated, but he refused to say whether or not he has arrived at a decision as to what action will be taken.

While the transfer of four officers from the Cadets to the Reserve Corps and the appointment of six others from relief of their detail with the Cadets was the talk of military circles, Lieut.-Colonel Harner E. Landon is said a statement in which he said changes in the personnel of officers is necessary as a result of the order recently issued making the outfit a regiment in place of the designation, "unstable craft branch."

The statement of Lieut.-Colonel Landon designates seven changes in the personnel of the officers, which includes additional changes to those already announced. Lieut.-Colonel William J. Rochester, Lieut.-Colonel Franklin W. Fessenden, Lieut.-Colonel Ralph H. Gray and Lieut.-Colonel Edward H. Taylor have been transferred to the National Guard reserve at their own request because of dissatisfaction, and others who have requested a transfer include Major Ross T. Whistler, second in command; Lieut.-Colonel Hancock Dury, Captain Augustus Dury, Captain John M. Christian and Lieut.-Colonel H. Murray Duff.

The new officers assigned are: Lieut.-Colonel Jonathan W. French, a former adjutant, as junior officer; Captain David A. Froom, gun battery; Major Leon F. Fox, scout; Lieut.-Colonel Harry J. Spencer, battery; Captain Raymond D. Fox, battery; Lieut.-Colonel Landon in his statement said:

"It is expected Major Joseph W. Barber will again join the corps on his return from his tour of duty at Fort Monmouth."

YOUTH PARKS HAT IN WRONG HOUSE
Lexington police are seeking a youth of 20, who entered the Winston residence on Massachusetts avenue, that town. The youth walked in the rear door, which was unlocked, at 429 A. M. yesterday. When the housekeeper asked him what he wanted, he said he lived there. He walked to the front porch of the house, left his hat and coat and disappeared out the front door in the direction of Arlington.

Nine Lives Underneath

MIKE—or maybe Ike—sits in grief, a trifle dazed, at the grave of his pal and brother, Ike, or maybe Mike, beneath the window of Capt. James Smith of the West Roxbury police station. Ike, or Mike—they looked alike—was killed by a trolley yesterday and the survivor grieves.

MASCOT MOURNS AT TWIN'S GRAVE

Into the West Roxbury police station tragedy crept yesterday. Ike, or Mike, and Mike, or Mike—maybe it's Mike that's dead, with like mourning.

They were two pets of the Station 12 police. Waifs of Winter and kittens of destiny, they were caused in a basket from the Charles River several months ago, after Officer Edward Brundage had sighted their floating craft.

He took them to the station, fed and warmed them, and they became brother mascots of brother police men. But they were hard to tell apart and where Mike went the went and where Ike went Mike went—so at least they went together.

Until yesterday, when Mike, or Mike, or Mike, or Mike—maybe it's Mike that's dead, with like mourning. The one of the other, Mike—maybe it's Mike that's dead, with like mourning. The one of the other, Mike—maybe it's Mike that's dead, with like mourning.

Police bore the broken body back into the station and placed it in a wadded box, just as Ike, or Mike, appeared. Police buried the box and the contents, in the lawn beneath the window of Captain James Smith, Mike, or Ike, watched the interment of Ike, or Mike, and when the clouds had dropped and the mound was smooth and the sods back on, Ike, or Mike, took up his watch beside the grave.

When night fell, Mike, or Ike, still held his brotherly vigil—just a flat that had lost his pal.

Anti-Saloon League's Astounding Methods Are Revealed

SECRET RECORDS OF ITS DICTATOR MADE PUBLIC

boasts of his political power, his control over President, Congress, judges, prohibition enforcement officers.

For the sake of clarity, authority and illustration, we shall interweave facts from the Anti-Saloon League records and literature to throw into bold relief the methods of propagandists to dominate constitutional government at Washington. For more than 35 years the Anti-Saloon League has operated in secret.

The curtain is drawn back, revealing from the inside the political and financial operations of a mere handful of self-appointed and self-perpetuating citizens, who, by the use of great sums of money and an astounding spread of partisan propaganda, have, to all practical purposes, seized the reins of government with respect to prohibition.

It will be shown how, with the financial aid of about 200,000 people, they have controlled the enactment and administration of a law to regulate the personal habits of 120,000,000 people.

Asserts It Has Senators on Its Payroll

If, by a change of one vote, the executive committee had authorized publication of this proclamation to the people of the United States, it is not impossible that an attempt at impeachment would have gone forward.

Not only does the Anti-Saloon League frankly assert that it controls legislation by Congress, but it has a considerable number of Congressmen and Senators periodically on its payroll. They are in the records as "honorarium men." Wayne B. Wheeler, testifying before the Reed "Slush Fund" Committee on June 16, 1925, named some of the honorarium bearers.

He enumerated Congressman Upshaw, of Georgia; Congressman Cooper, of Ohio; Congressman (now Senator) Barkley, of Kentucky; Congressman Lowry, of Mississippi; Senator Jones, of Washington; Senator Willis, of Ohio; Senator Fess, of Ohio; Senator Robinson, of Indiana.

They were all hired by the "subscription department" of the National Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Wheeler told the Reed committee that he did not know how many more Congressmen and Senators were engaged and paid by the 37 active State Anti-Saloon Leagues which raise and spend most of the money.

This congressional oratory brought "subscriptions." The records which the writer has just examined show that, up to the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment in 1919, $50,000, 000 was raised and spent in prohibition propaganda. Apparently, some of the items making up this total slipped Mr. Wheeler's mind when he testified before the Reed committee that the pre-prohibition expenditures amounted to $35,000,000. The money stream continued pretty freely in the six years, 1920-25, inclusive, when, according to these records, $13,065,000 was gathered.

Tells of Over $700,000 in Subscriptions

The golden voice of William Jennings Bryan was valuable to the League. Before the executive committee meeting at the Raleigh Hotel in Washington, February 18, 1925, in a report entitled "The Present Financial Crisis," Dr. Howard Russell, founder of the Anti-Saloon League, referred to the good old days. He said:

"In 1919 I accompanied Mr. Bryan four months, taking subscriptions for the contribution department which totaled over $700,000."

The record for highest paid solicitor is held by ex-Congressman Richard Pearson Hobson, who got $171,249.68 as salary for speaking for the subscription department between 1914 and 1922. He got an average of nearly $20,000 a year, and the records show that in one year he was paid over $34,000.

The Boston Evening American will present from day to day an expose of the political and financial and propagandist activities of the Anti-Saloon League, as corroborated by its own records. Today it is necessary to dwell on a short series of events in early November, 1925, just before and after the November 8 meeting of the executive committee in Chicago, when they failed by such a narrow margin to indict President Coolidge before the people.

They were in Chicago in connection with the crisis convention of the Anti-Saloon League being held in that city. It was addressed by Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, who launched a bitter attack upon the administration in general, holding Secretary of the Treasury Mellon primarily responsible for the prohibition enforcement fiasco. One of his statements was:

"The Eighteenth Amendment has been betrayed in the house of its friends. Measured by the respect accorded to it, it has failed, and the reason is that no sincere, intelligent and concerted nation-wide effort has ever been made to enforce it."

Peremptory Personal Letter Sent President

Inflamed by the Pinchot speech, the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League met in secret session and addressed the "impeachment" proclamation to the people of the United States, determined to hold President Calvin Coolidge personally responsible.

However, wiser counsels prevailed. They buried the resolution in the records and, next day, instead of formally and publicly charging the President with an impeachment offense, they sent him the following sharp and peremptory personal communication:

"Chicago, Nov. 9, 1925.

"To the President, The White House, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Mr. President:

"We hereby transmit to your information and consideration a copy of an address by Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, delivered before the biennial convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, in the city of Chicago, on Sunday, November 8, 1925, which contains certain statements of such serious nature concerning the administration and enforcement of the prohibition laws as in our judgment to justify us calling the matter to your attention.

"In transmitting this document to you, we do not undertake to pass upon any of the statements, but we think you should know that an audience of 1,500 representative and influential citizens, including delegates from practically every State in the Union, were deeply stirred

Anti-Saloon League, in Sharp Letter, Calls President Coolidge to Time

LEAGUE HELMSMAN—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel and legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League whose story of his dictatorship, written for private information of the League's executive committee who gave him his power, will be presented in the Boston Sunday Advertiser and the Boston Evening American.

To the President,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

We hereby transmit to your information and consideration a copy of an address by Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, delivered before the biennial convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, in the city of Chicago, on Sunday, November 8, 1925, which contains certain statements of such serious nature concerning the administration and enforcement of the prohibition laws as in our judgment to justify us in calling the matter to your attention.

In transmitting this document to you we do not undertake to pass upon any of the statements, but we think you should know that an audience of fifteen hundred representative and influential citizens, including delegates from practically every State in the Union, were deeply stirred by this address, and by unanimous vote urged us to acquaint you with the facts.

We are upholding and supporting the Government in its efforts to enforce the law. There is a widespread feeling throughout the country that the Treasury Department and other departments having in their charge the enforcement of the prohibition law, are not doing their duty.

Our people will not consent to the proposition that a great republic cannot enforce its laws. They will co-operate in all sincere and well directed efforts but they will not tolerate evasion or inefficiency.

Inasmuch as the chief responsibility in these matters rests with the President, we are respectfully bringing them to your attention.

Sincerely,

by this address, and by unanimous vote urged us to acquaint you with the facts.

It is true that this letter carries no threat of impeachment to the President, but it serves notice upon him, in unmistakable terms, that they had their eye upon him and expected him to do his duty as they saw it.

Many Reverends and Doctors Members

Practically everyone of importance in the Anti-Saloon League seems to be a reverend or a doctor. Wayne B. Wheeler, consistently referred to in the records as Dr. Wheeler, is an Ohio lawyer who has made his money for 35 years working for the Anti-Saloon League, but he is doctor by grace of three L. L. D. degrees: One from Western Reserve University, one from Muskingum College and one from Oberlin College, all in Ohio.

The executive committee did not rest with the transmission of this November 9 letter to the President. It resorted to underground methods of attempting to bring pressure upon Mr. Coolidge by frightening him with the bogey of Governor Al Smith, of New York, if he, the President, did not speed up his enforcement work.

Dr. A. J. Barton, chairman of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League, addressed himself to Roy D. Haynes, United States Prohibition Commissioner, underground agent for reaching the President. In a "personal and confidential" communication to Commissioner Haynes, the head of the Anti-Saloon League suggested to Haynes that he see the President and "his closest and most influential advisers" and warn them of the Smith peril. As conditions then stood, Dr. Barton wrote:

"If Al Smith should succeed in getting the Democratic nomination, he will defeat Coolidge or any other man that the Republicans may name."

Letter Bears Out Andrews' Allegations

The fact that Major Haynes could thus be addressed by Dr. Barton is evidence of the truth of General Andrews' statement that Haynes, though U. S. Prohibition Commissioner at a salary of $7,500 a year, was a "liaison officer" between the United States Government and the Anti-Saloon League.

The letter from Barton to Haynes reads as follows. While marked "Personal and Confidential," it was incorporated in the official minutes of the executive committee of the League: December 8, 1925.

"Personal and Confidential.
 "Honorable Roy A. Haynes,
 "Washington, D. C.:
 "Dear Major Haynes:
 "This letter is both personal to you and personal from me. I am not speaking for anybody else other than myself.

"I left Washington Sunday night and got into my office this morning. On the train I found time to read with care the statement of facts which you made in reply to the speech of Governor Pinchot and which was communicated as personal and confidential to me and to the executive committee.

"It seems to me that you have made a very effective reply. I do not see why the Secretary of the Treasury would be unwilling for you in your own defense and on your own responsibility as commissioner to make public your reply. I am confident it would do much good.

"DOCTOR CHERRINGTON AND I ARE AWAITING THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE BEFORE DECIDING WHETHER WE SHALL ADDRESS THE SECOND LETTER TO HIM, and if so, just what it should contain. It is our feeling that possibly the President might be so clear and emphatic in his message that a further letter from us would be unnecessary.

"I wish you would get hold of last Sunday's New York Times and read the article which it carries on the present Texas situation. I mean political situation. It is a very discriminating and informing article. It makes very clear the growing strength of Al Smith in the South.

"It makes clear the fact if one will read between the lines, that the Klan movement has created a situation which is going to make it very hard for the best and most thoughtful element of our Southern people to fight Al Smith bitterly, lest by doing so they might appear to be putting emphasis on a racial question and qualification and to be approving of or in league with the Klan. I am speaking in a non-partisan way.

"IF AL SMITH SHOULD SUCCEED IN GETTING THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION, IN THE PRESENT

CONFUSED SITUATION, HE WILL DEFEAT COOLIDGE OR ANY OTHER MAN THAT THE REPUBLICANS MAY NAME.

"This makes it tremendously important that Mr. Coolidge and the whole administration shall become aggressive and militant for prohibition enforcement, and that each of the major parties shall declare out and out for prohibition and for prohibition enforcement in their platforms at the next national convention.

"Of course, if Al Smith's influence should control in the Democratic convention, such declaration would be impossible there. Whatever the facts in that case, the Republican convention ought to make such declaration without question of equivocation.

"I want you to think this matter through carefully and to SEE TO IT THAT THE PRESIDENT AND HIS CLOSEST AND MOST INFLUENTIAL ADVISERS UNDERSTAND THE SITUATION. The only way for the present administration and for the Republicans to meet the possibility of the domination of the Democratic party by wet personalities and wet influence is to be more aggressive and more militant for prohibition.

"With kindest regards and best wishes, I am,

"Sincerely yours, A. J. BARTON, D. D."

Perhaps this "personal and confidential" letter from Dr. Barton, which is incorporated in the League's records, may be taken as expressing the real opinion of the Anti-Saloon League regarding the peril of Al Smith if nominated. Publicly, of course, they assert that no wet candidate will have a chance, for example, Dr. Barton himself, speaking at Raleigh, N. C., on May 8 of this year, said:

"IF THE DEMOCRATS SHOULD BE SO FOOLISH AS TO NOMINATE AL SMITH, A NUMBER OF SOUTHERN STATES WOULD VOTE THE REPUBLICAN TICKET, AND THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY WOULD GO DOWN TO UTTER DEFEAT."

If this is true, the logical procedure for the Anti-Saloon League would be to allow the nomination of Al Smith as an avowed wet candidate and see him go down to defeat. But the Anti-Saloon League is taking no such chance. Its executive committee, after its most recent meeting, held in Washington on May 18 of this year, publicly announced that it was raising a fund of $600,000 to defeat any wet candidate for President. In this announcement it specifically mentioned Governor Smith, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator Reed. Since then the League has published and circulated what it calls "Smith's wet record."

Putting Dr. Barton's two statements together, it appears that no wet candidates can be elected, but that it is worth $600,000 to the Anti-Saloon League to prevent the people from getting a chance to vote for a wet candidate.

(In tomorrow's Boston Evening American there will be revealed from the secret official records of the Anti-Saloon League how it brought pressure to bear on President Harding and President Coolidge to have its wishes obeyed in the enforcement of prohibition.)

250 Boys and Girls Find Religion Joyous at Star Island

UNITARIAN YOUTH FROM ALL U. S. THERE

Even Cupid Takes Part With Wedding and Engagement During Week

RECREATION A FEATURE

"Bobby," Only Horse on Isle, Now Has Rival in Its First Auto Truck

By ALICE MARY WILLIAMS

Portsmouth, N. H., July 9

RELIGION! Recreation! Rest! These were the three "H's" in the program at Star Island, off the coast of Portsmouth, during Young People's Week which came to a close at noon today.

Tomorrow will see the Unitarian Conference in session for the next two weeks.

Two hundred and fifty boys and girls from all parts of the United States were established at the Ocean Hotel as delegates to the ninth annual conference of the Young People's Religious Union of Unitarian churches, under the general supervision of Thomas W. House of Cambridge.

Mrs. George H. Dodson of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. George T. Hays of New York and Mrs. Thomas Housewife of the conference chairman, acted as chaperones.

Not that chaperones are needed in this case. Mrs. Dodson, "that it is just a friendly visit to the conference."

The main object of these yearly conferences is religion first and recreation second. "That it is to be almost impossible to interest 250 youngsters in a thing of this sort if it was not that there was religion from one end of the line to the other."

Religion and recreation with a certain amount of rest make a splendid combination. And that is what we offer our young folks.

In Old Meeting-House

The day's activities at all the conferences began and ended in the little meeting house—a quaint old building of the early building village which existed on the island over a century ago.

Especially edifying is the candle service. With lighted candles held aloft the young boys and girls in the altar aisle and reverence as the young ladies, and now once in the flickering light of the altar candles, modern prayers and thanksgiving are offered to God.

Prayer, singing, reading, hymns, recitation and dancing form the recreational part of the program.

Gay groups of boys and girls go into "free time" during the day. The twilight for thrilling games through the choppy seas.

"Little Oscar," the pet parrot of the island, celebrated his 25th birthday during the week.

Another and quite the most interesting and discussed event at Star Island during young people's week was the wedding. Miss Nancy H. Allen, daughter of the Hon. J. V. P. H. C. and Victor Maxwell, Knight of Toronto, Canada, vice president of the Y. P. U. W. were the happy couple.

Cupid Was Busy

The announcement came as a complete surprise to the visiting delegates to the form of a general invitation which was extended at luncheon on Tuesday. And that afternoon in the island chapel the young people were married by Rev. Edwin L. Fairley of New York.

Miss Allen plays an active part in the life of the church. And she is exactly why Miss Frances H. Bird of Dorchester, chairman high diver at the island, walked until the young people's conference at "The Gables" to announce her engagement to Isaac G. Hays of Wollaston.

Most Popular Girl

Quite the most popular girl in attendance at the conference was Miss Ruth Grevill of West Roxbury, a pretty and charming blonde, while "Bobby" horns fell to Jack Chubb of Dorchester, the palmer life guard.

At the banquet on Friday night Miss Elizabeth Kennedy of Brookline was presented the silver cup which is awarded to the girl who has the most charming personality.

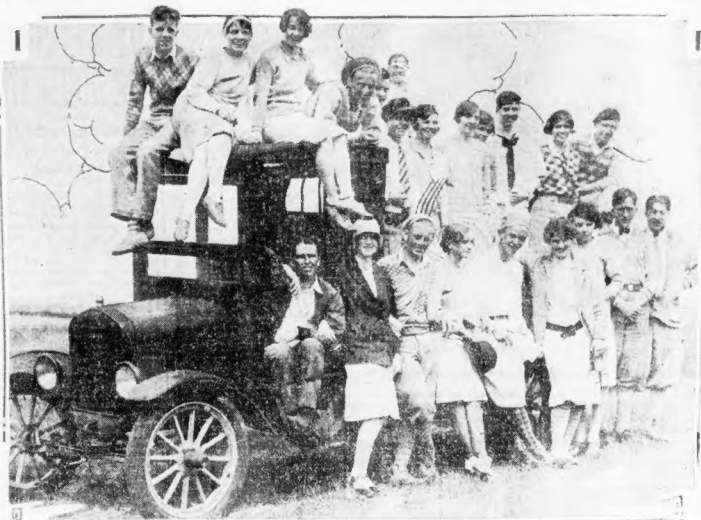

Miss Kennedy was a hard fought and close match with last year's champion.

Despite the fact that "Bobby" the only horse the island boasts of, was reported as "no more" after a very much alive and kicking.

"Bobby" is an extreme, heavy animal. From early until he has hauled great loads of luggage to and from the boat as well as all horse supplies arriving from the mainland. In between times poor old "Bobby" is kept busy dacking the Ford truck which has recently been acquired by the island.

This is the first motor vehicle on the Shoals and the very first ever witnessed by Bobby.

Youth and Beauty Test Star Island's First Truck

"ALL ABOARD" was enough to send Unitarian young folk scrambling to the big truck, a Star Island novelty.

NEWTON GIRL IS BRIDE OF N. Y. MAN

Miss Laura Drake, daughter of Louis S. Drake of Newton became the bride of John Henry, assistant of insurance commission, N. Y., at an all-Union ceremony, Wednesday, July 6, at the Unitarian Church, Newton Centre, Rev. Edwin L. Fairley officiating, assisted by Rev. Laurence McLean.

Miss Frances Drake, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Deacon Richard of Haverhill was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Henry of Newton and Miss Mildred Danahy of Bedford, Ct.

The bride is a graduate of Barnard and Connecticut College, and the bridegroom of Wilkes College and Harvard School of Business Administration. They will live in Portland, Me.

At the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan H. White, Georgetown, last evening, their daughter, Miss Drake, formerly of Malden and Boston, was married to Mr. and Mrs. John L. Drake.

Miss Elizabeth White Wallace of North Abington and James Beggs of Boston were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Drake.

AUDITORIUM REAL ASSET FOR BOSTON

Boston, the "convention centre of the Northeast," has possibilities little short of wonderful, but Boston would have an auditorium that would place it on a par with other cities, according to the report of the convention bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The committee emphasizes that a Boston auditorium large enough for the greatest gatherings would house not only conventions but would be a business asset to the city.

SWEDISH CHORUS HERE TOMORROW

The National Chorus of Sweden, comprising fifty voices, on a tour of the United States, will give a concert in Symphony Hall tomorrow night.

A reception and dinner for the singers will be held at Hotel Statler after the performance. The singers will sail for home Thursday, and any profits from the tour in this country will be donated to the Swedish consanguine sanatorium in Denmark.

WOMEN GATHER FLOWER PRIZES

Many South Shore women gathered at the annual exhibition of the Colchester Garden Club in Chelsea set town hall yesterday.

Second prize was awarded to Mrs. J. Franklin McElwain and Mrs. Delores Wright, whose exhibit was made up of an English garden and a reproduction of the side of a shingled house, decorated with Madama Alice iris, white camellias, Canterbury daisies and roses.

Mrs. Carl T. Kolar was awarded third prize for an Italian shrine.

Mrs. William MacMillan and Mrs. Henry Pennell received honorable mention for a Spanish court made up of red geraniums, lilacs, iris and a variety of other flowers.

Other exhibitors included Mrs. Alice Hyde, Mrs. Charles Culver and Mrs. Henry Chamber.

The clanging of the gongs at the State House yesterday caused much excitement until Fred H. Kimball, superintendent of buildings, explained it was merely a test of the alarm system.

Body Found in Harbor

The body of a man recovered in the police boat yesterday off the pier, N. Y. Yacht, yesterday, is believed to be that of Arthur Strawn, 31, formerly of the United States Coast Guard tender, Thetis, Providence, who disappeared early last month.

Here's Final List of Winners in the 'Game of Presidents'

AWARDS HAVE BEEN MADE TO 547 IN NEW ENGLAND

THE list of New England's 547 winners in the great Game of Presidents and First Ladies of the Land, conducted by the Boston Sunday Advertiser in association with ten other Sunday newspaper publishers, is completed today by the printing of names and addresses of 177 readers, in each of whom five dollar awards are made.

Letters from participants in whom awards already have been announced indicate the tremendous interest which was aroused by this contest and testify to the wide appreciation of its educational value.

The total cash value of the competition to readers of the Sunday Advertiser was $1450 in the following amounts:

1 of $500.....$500
1 of $400.....400
6 of $250.....1,500
16 of $200.....3,200
15 of $150.....2,250
125 of $100.....12,500
308 of $50.....15,400
547.....$23,450

Any reader whose name has been listed as a winner and who has not received his or her check for the amount specified will confer a favor upon the Sunday Advertiser by coming to the office at 770 Washington street, Boston, to receive the same.

Those whose names appear today with the name of a winner, are those who have, with course, not a reasonable time before writing. The final list of winners will be published in the Sunday Advertiser, July 17.

COOLIDGE IS TOLD OF BUMPER CROP

Rapid City, S. D., July 9 (A.P.).—A group of railroad officials called at the summer White House today during a regular inspection of their properties in this territory and gave President Coolidge a highly encouraging report of middle western crop prospects.

Railroads are musing their forces for the movement of a bumper crop, they told Mr. Coolidge, which in their opinion will break all records. If conditions continue to favor the harvest, they considered that business would be accelerated generally, but they added that while business is not so brisk now, so efficient equipment or legislation was most apt to aid holding its own.

Every year for ten weeks in the summer, approximately 1000 people and their families are given a week's vacation at the White House, it is reported. This is a tempting week each. This is a week in which Cardinal O'Connell is deeply interested.

100 POOR TOTS TO GO ON VACATION
About 100 poor, undernourished little girls will be taken for a week's rest and outing at the White House, it is reported. The girls will be in the charge of the American Red Cross, a registered nurse, and workers from the bureau of child welfare.
